

Brown Bear

Katmai National Park and Preserve, Alaska

Did You Know?

When laying down to rest, Alaskan brown bears dig "belly holes" to accommodate their food-filled bellies—the bigger the belly, the bigger the hole!

Height: About 3–5 feet at the shoulder and 5–7 feet in length.

Weight: Ranges from 200 to 1000 pounds depending on sex, location, and season

Average Life Span: 15–25 years