

GBN Announcements

9/18/2017

“Attention 7th and 8th graders:

Can you read, speak, listen and write fluently in a language other than English? If so, you have the opportunity to earn high school credit by taking a district assessment. Visit the Counseling office for more information.”

Welcome to Gateway Broadcast News!

I'm Lucas , your ASB VP, and I'm happy to say we have a great episode of announcements for you today!

First, we would like you to know that Yearbook Club applications are on the wall by the front office. The applications are due by next Thursday, and space is limited, so get yours in soon! You can turn them into Mrs. Stoskopf or to the main office.

Next, let me robo-mind you that Robotics club applications are due today! Turn them into Ms. Van Tuyl by the end of the school day!!!

Remember, Kazu Kibuishi, the author of the graphic novel series, Amulet, is coming to Gateway on October 3rd. If you would like to order a copy of Amulet or any of his other amazing books, please pick up an order form from the library. All orders need to be in the library by next Monday, September 25th. If you already own a copy of his books, you may bring in one for him to auto-graph. Please just bring it to the library before October 3rd.

Hey Gateway Guardians, make sure to silence your cell phone! We have been hearing some, um, strange noises in the hallway. Mostly in the 8th grade hallway...

Study hall and MASH (Math After School Help) both started on Monday this week, which means the activity bus is officially ready for action. Sign up at lunchtime if you are planning on taking the activity bus home at 4pm.

If you're coming to study hall, please take a few minutes after school to use the restroom or grab a snack, and then line up along the wall outside the library by 2:55pm. Bring all of the materials and assignments you will need to complete your work.

If you are going to MASH, go to room 403 on Mondays and room 413 on Wednesdays.

Are you a Gateway Guardian? Do you ever wonder what “Guard your Character” actually means?

You're not alone! Other Guardians, just like you, have found themselves wondering how they can properly guard their character.

First of all, you need to know what character is.

According to the dictionary, Character is the combination of personality traits, or values, that mark and often individualize a person or group.

When you hear someone talk about strong or good character, they are talking about someone with positive values that are easy to see, all the time!

So when someone tells you to “Guard your Character” what they are really saying is, remember to show the world the positive values we share as students at Gateway...even when it's hard, or no one is watching.

At Gateway, we value each other. Some of the best ways we can guard our character involve helping others. What can you do to make somebody's day happier, easier, or more enjoyable? Being a helpful member of this school is a great way to guard you character.

On that note....Remember, Gateway, Guard your Character!
