Vocational Excellence

Claire Kim

Claire Kim is the President of Jackson High School's HOSA-Future Medical Professionals chapter and hopes to become a medical practitioner. Through seasonal blood drives, leadership conferences, and workshop opportunities, she creates an environment where students with a common interest in the medical field feel welcome to establish new friendships, while simultaneously expanding their knowledge. Following high school, Claire intends to pursue a career involving medicine and neurology, benefiting the health of human posterity. Her teacher and HOSA advisor, Erin Acheson, said this about Claire: Claire was not only in my class last year but joined HOSA: Future Health Professionals Club with me. She worked hard and her group earned 3rd place in Washington State in the Public Health Event. We traveled together to Spokane in March before everything closed. She is meticulous, responsible, and I can trust her to travel across our state. She is a leader by example and decided, even in the time of COVID, to apply for the JHS HOSA President position for this year. Claire did not miss a beat. She started executing her plans for the club with her Officer Team right away in the spring. She organized a Blood Drive for our community during the summer to bring people together. She is a careful student and is enthusiastic about learning-especially about the human body. She stands out from her classmates because she cares about learning and is not obsessed with her grades. She takes feedback and makes changes, as necessary. She will make a great Health Care professional because she cares about people and does her work with excellence. Claire's organization, drive, and open-mindedness will set her apart from her classmates.
