

May 2022 Student of the Month

Lindsay Koo

The student of the month, for academic excellence, is Lindsay Koo. Lindsay has taken the most challenging courses Jackson offers, including 13 AP courses for which she scored high enough marks on the exams to earn the AP Scholar with Distinction Award, all while maintaining a perfect 4.0 GPA. She participated in the Western Aerospace Scholar program resulting in her induction into the NASA High School Aerospace Scholars Alumni Association, earning physics credits from the University of Washington. She is the JHS Math Club President and is on the JHS National Honor Society/Key Club / MC Advisory Board where she established a virtual volunteer tutoring program to support students during the pandemic. She has been accepted to USC's Astronautical Engineering program but she's still finalizing where she will attend. We know that she will bring her positive, genuine, mature, trustworthy, kind and gracious presence wherever she attends next year.
