There were two things on our agenda for this afternoon: baking zucchini bread and weeding in and around the garden planters in the backyard. Both were accomplished, but I think I did more work outside than the boys . . . they ended up playing soccer and football! Oh, well, I guess it was their P.E. time!

Baking Zucchini Bread:

Ezekiel's LOVES to help in the kitchen but he doesn't get to do it very often because of time and schedules. Today was the perfect opportunity to take the time to make one of his favorites, zucchini bread! He was in charge of the ingredients and measuring everything per the recipe. It was great fraction practice as well as a lesson in patience and double checking his work. You don't want to forget an ingredient!

Yardwork & Critters:

I pulled out the tools I needed and dove right in, but the boys were nowhere to be found!

Can you find my critter friends? You never know what will crawl out of flowers or what you will find when you lift a paver stone!

There are strawberry plants hiding somewhere under the leaves and grass. I wondered if I would be able to find them . . . I did!

Take advantage of the beautiful weather . . . go outside and EXPLORE!
